

2003-47

>>> "G. Hock" <gdhock@comcast.net> 11/13/03 09:44PM >>>

From Gary R. Hock: In reference to Court Rule No. 2003-47, it is interesting to note that it is always the working guy that gets the short end of the stick. I have been diagnosed with asbestosis after working for 40 years in the automotive, paper mill, and electric utility industry. Now a group of shifty eyed lawyers, employed by the same companies that produced, distributed, and used these deadly products are petitioning this court to deny me my due process. I urge this court to remember their job function is to interpret the law, not make it. We may be little guys, compared to these giant companies, and we vote in all the elections. So remember, when we band together, we are THE MOUSE THAT ROARED. Thank you for hearing my plea. Gary R. Hock gdhock@comcast.net